MRS. TABOR'S STORY.

Brings to Light Several Unsavory Details

Of the Part Bush Took in the Divorce Proceedings.

Tabor vs. Bush.

DENVER, October 29. The Tabor-Bush case is dragging slowly along. The forenoon session of the court was consumed in hearing the testimony of numerous witnesses concerning the several transactions in grain options had by both Bush and Tabor with Lester & Co., of Chicago, through Ortell & Co. of this city. Nothing of a very interesting character except to the litigants was elicited.

The first witness called in the afternoon session was Mrs. Augusta M. Tabor. She was asked if Mr. Tabor had employed Mr. Bush to negotiate with her for the granting of a divorce. She replied that on the 25th of January, 1881, she went to Leadville to see Mr. Tabor and he told me that if I would give him a divorce—

Mr. Rockwell—"I object."

Mrs. Tabor—"I intend to tell my story."

Mr. Rockwell—"You shan't do it."

A squabble then ensued between counsel. Mr. Rockwell said the $10,000 claim of Bush's for services in getting a divorce was for illegal services and could not be allowed. He said he had some authorities and called for that part of Bush's answer which Mr. Teller, to be obliging, read for him. Then Mr. Rockwell said that Mrs. Tabor at the time in question was Mr. Tabor's wife and she was therefore not a competent witness at all. While this was going on Mr. Tabor came into the room and took a seat near his counsel. The court ruled that she was a competent witness but said that she could not tell what was said between herself and Mr. Tabor before they were divorced. Mr. Teller asked if Mr. Bush after the 31st of January, 1881, called on her as Mr. Tabor's agent and offered a large sum of money if she would give consent to a divorce. This was objected to, because Mr. Bush's agency had not been proved. After a lively discussion on the part of the lawyers the objection was sustained, and Mrs. Tabor was asked how many times Mr. Bush called to see her about this matter. She said he had called to see about it several hundred times. Further evidence was objected to and Mrs. Tabor was asked to stand aside.

Mr. Bush was put on the stand to show that he was Tabor's agent. He said that in 1881 Mr. Tabor asked him to go to Mrs. Tabor and see if she would not take less alimony than she had demanded from Tabor. That was the first time Bush knew of any trouble between Tabor and his wife. He told Mr. Tabor that he could not afford to get a divorce from Mrs. Tabor. He was a candidate for the senate and could not afford the scandal which a divorce would cause. He wanted me to hunt up evidence against Mrs. Tabor.

"What did you say to this?"

"I positively refused to do it."

"What did you agree to do?"

"I agreed to see her and try to get her to agree to a divorce on condition that she should have half of his fortune."

"What else were you employed to do?"

"Well, he wanted me to help get the Durango divorce. He wanted me to perjure myself. He wanted me to swear to the serving of a paper on Mrs. Tabor. I knew the paper had not been served and refused to do it. It was then that Mr. Tabor lost confidence in me. I positively refused to hunt up evidence against Mrs. Tabor. I agreed to act as Mr. Tabor's agent on Maxey's account."

On cross examination Mr. Bush said that the first he heard of trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Tabor was in December, 1880, or January '81. At first she replied that she would not even talk about a divorce.

"Then," said Mr. Rockwell, "Why did you go back?"

"Because Mr. Tabor kept saying 'Try again.'"

Here Mr. Rockwell asked Mrs. Tabor to retire from the room as he intended to ask questions which it would not be proper for her to hear. At first she refused to go, but finally consented. Then Mr. Rockwell asked, "Don't you know that Mrs. Tabor lays all her domestic troubles to you?"

"No," was the emphatic answer.

Mr. Rockwell asked further questions and finally asked Mr. Bush if he did not confess to Mr. Rockwell that he saw the papers served on Mrs. Tabor.

"I did. I confess it with shame, but I did not go and swear to the paper."

Witness was asked if he did not use some very bad language concerning Mrs. Tabor's character and he said that he only repeated Mr. Tabor's language to him.

"Did you not," was asked, "say that if ever a man had good reason for divorce on the ground of adultery, it was Mr. Tabor."

"No."

"Did you not say that Mrs. Tabor had been guilty of adultery ever since she came to Denver?"

"No."

This answer was objected to and was stricken out of the testimony.

"Did you not say that Mrs. Tabor was in the habit of coming about the Windsor hotel and getting into rooms and watching you and Mr. Tabor until she was getting to be such a damned nuisance that either you or she had to sell?"

"No; but I think I heard Mr. Tabor say something of the kind."

"Didn't you say that Durango divorce was straight?"

"No; I didn't. You asked me if I would swear to it, and I said no. Then you said if both Mr. Tabor and myself should go on the stand and a half dozen more like us, and swear that the paper was served and Mrs. Tabor denied it the jury would believe her."

Mrs. Tabor was called.

She showed a letter in which she said she would accept Mr. Tabor's proposition to give her $5,000 to hold off her suit a month longer. But she said she didn't get the money.

In cross-examination she said Mr. Bush first talked to her of the divorce in February, 1881. Mr. Paterson asked questions which related to the time of the divorce, and she said she could not answer. "I am not divorced," she said. Several unimportant questions were put and answered, when court adjourned.

Shot by a Cowboy.

SALIDA, Colorado, October 29.—About 9 o'clock this evening the people of this place were alarmed by the report of several revolvers in the vicinity of the dance hall, and upon learning the cause were horrified to learn that the city marshal, Baxter Stingley, had been shot, it is thought fatally, by Frank Reed, a cowboy, for whom Stingley held a warrant for cattle stealing. As near as can be ascertained the particulars are these: There was quite a crowd of people at the dance hall, probably 200, where a masquerade ball was in progress. Baxter Stingley stepped into the hall and walking up to Reed, covered him with his pistol, saying, "Frank, I want you." Reed replied, "All right, Baxter," at the same time drawing both hands from his overcoat pocket, and knocking Stingley's pistol down with his left hand and firing with the other. Five shots were fired, Reed firing three, of which one entered Stingley's left breast just below the heart, one striking his left wrist, shattering it, and the other took effect in his right thigh. Stingley is in a very dangerous condition, and is not expected to live until morning. Reed escaped and no efforts have been made to capture him at this hour, although he is supposed to have been hurt by one shot, as marks of blood were found on the floor where he ran in getting out of the hall.

SUNDAY HAPPENINGS.

A fire at Kansas City caused a loss of about $20,000.

Abe Schiffer, of Durango, Colorado, was accidentally shot.

It is feared that the United States coast survey steamer Eager has been lost.

The body of an unknown man was found murdered near Cambridge, Indiana.

Thirteen persons were slightly injured in an accident on the Chicago & Alton road.

A negro named Jones was shot several times, in Philadelphia, but the bullets flattened on his skull.

In a smash-up on the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis & Chicago railroad, James Bowles was killed.

As a result of a church quarrel in the parish of Wallpack, New Jersey, the organ was tarred and feathered.

The quarantine officers at San Francisco were notified that the yellow fever had ceased at Mazatlan.

Robert Wright and George Elbert, of Savannah, Ga., quarreled while gambling, and the former was killed.

James Courtney and Joseph McStein were suffocated by gas in New York, and it is thought they will not recover.

L. S. Stone & Co.'s store, at Springfield, Mass., was robbed of diamonds and jewelry valued at about $5,000.

Mabel Stone, the adopted daughter of a retired banker and broker, at Boston, committed suicide by shooting herself in the head.

The arrest of one or two young men at Jamaica, Vermont, charged with counterfeiting, has brought to light a most unique story of organized crime.

A collision occurred between a passenger train bound north on the Panhandle road and an outgoing freight train on the Michigan Central, and three men killed and four injured.

An Arctic Curiosity.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 29.—Dr. Leonard Stegneir, who was commissioned by the Smithsonian Institute to go to Behrings Island and find a skeleton of a "Northern Manatie" of sea cow, arrived in town to-day on the steamer St. Paul from the Arctic with an excellent specimen, the scientist of Behrings' second expedition, wrecked in 1741, was the first to see and describe a living specimen. Dr. Stegneir says his skeleton is the same as that of the animal described by Steller and is, he believes, the only one in this country. He has also seventeen skulls of the same animal.

Irish Disorders.

DUBLIN, October 29.—There was no public meeting of the National League anywhere in Ireland yesterday, the government forbidding them. Some disorders occurred at Castle Lyons, County Cork, where police with fixed bayonets charged upon a procession breaking it up completely, capturing banners and musical instruments. When the military and police withdrew, however, the meeting was held, thus their object was effected.

DYNAMITE DISASTER.

Blown to Atoms.

PITTSBURG, October 29.—A dispatch from Confluence, Pennsylvania, says dynamite in a magazine near the Brooks tunnel on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad exploded yesterday morning with terrible force, blowing five men to atoms. It is not known how the terrible accident occurred.

PITTSBURG, October 29.—A Confluence, Pa., special says: A terrible disaster occurred near Brooks tunnel on the Baltimore railroad yesterday morning at about nine o'clock, resulting in killing five men. The railroad company have been strengthening and widening the tunnel, and some distance out a magazine had been erected in which to store 1,200 pounds of dynamite which was to be used for blasting. About the hour named a freight train had just passed through the tunnel and was side-tracked to allow a passenger train, over due, to pass. Four of the crew walked back to the vicinity of the magazine and engaged in conversation with the watchman, when people living in the vicinity were startled by a terrible concussion. Houses for fifteen miles around were shaken to their foundations, and windows for a distance of seven miles were shattered. Horror-stricken the people ran from their houses, and upon investigation it was found the dynamite had exploded with fearful effect. Everything in the vicinity gave evidence of the terrific force of the explosion. Trees were uprooted, huge rocks torn asunder and telegraph poles for half a mile prostrated. Nothing remained of the magazine, while the five men who were present were missing. It is thought they have all been killed. Portions of bodies, legs, arms, hands and heads, have been picked up half a mile distant, but they were so badly disfigured as so be unrecognizable. The names of only three of the victims are known, engineer Reynolds, brakeman Tice and watchman Hammond.

The cause of the explosion is enshrouded in mystery, and as the five men who might have thrown some light on the affair are dead it is quite probable it will never be known. Not far from the accident a gun was found. It is supposed one of the victims discharged it, the concussion causing the dynamite to explode.

An inquest was held by the coroner to-day and a verdict of accidental death rendered. Great excitement prevails here and hundreds have gone to the scene of the disaster.

Fire-Damp Horror.

SCRANTON, Pa., October 29.—An explosion of fire-damp is reported from the Pennsylvania Coal Co., shaft number seven, three miles from Pittston. Thirty men were in the mine. Five are badly burned; one is dead. The fate of the others is unknown.

Thomas and James Gallagher, brothers, were brought out dead, burned almost to a crisp. Six others were seriously burned and injured, three probably fatally. The other men in the part of the mine where the explosion occurred escaped through a mule-way. The force of the explosion blew down brattices and props and tore the gates apart, lifting the men up bodily, hurling some a distance of 20 or 30 feet.

The Markets.

NEW YORK, October 29.—Money easier 2 to 3, closing 3@3½ prime paper 6 to 7; sterling exchange weak 4.81, demand 4.83½; governments strong; railways quiet and firm; states firm. Stocks opened strong, early advanced ½ to 2½, then reacted slightly. At midday the market was strong, advancing. In the afternoon it weakened and declined, except Oregon Transportation, which closed ¾ over the opening figure. In final sales the market rallied and closed rather firm, generally ¼ to 1% lower. Transactions 300,000.

Mining stocks dull. Horn Silver sold at 6.00 to 6.25; Standard Consolidated 6.00; Sierra Nevada 3.95; Alice 2.65; Chrysolite 1.15; Little Chief 56 cents; Sonora Consolidated 20 and 25. Sales 21,640 shares.

Foreign Floods.

ATHENS, October 29.—The river Salambria, in Thessaly, overflowed its banks, causing widespread devastation. One hundred houses were destroyed and several lives lost. Larissha and villages in its vicinity are surrounded by water. Communication with the flooded district is much delayed and railways are greatly damaged.

A South American Revolution.

LIMA, via GALVESTON, Tex., October 29.—An official telegram from Mollendo says: We learn that Arequipa surrendered without a battle. Moitero has fled and Yglesias has been proclaimed president.

A Town Destroyed.

GALVESTON, October 29.—The News' Sherman special says: It was reported to-day that the town of Gordonsville was totally destroyed by conflagration last night in a drug store which had been set fire to after being robbed. Insurance unknown.

Runaway Cars.

OIL CITY, Pa., October 29.—Some empty coal cars on the Cranberry railroad near Oil City became unmanageable and started down a grade, colliding with other cars and were hurled from the track and through a dwelling house. There were several narrow escapes, but no lives were lost.

A Colony for New Guinea.

LONDON, October 29.—Despite the disapproval of Derby, colonial minister, of exploration, in New Guinea, projectors will proceed by steam, leaving England before Christmas. They will take six months provisions, tents and arms. Each subscriber of £100 to the expedition will secure a land warrant entitling him to five thousand acres.

Boiler Explosion.

MOBILE, Ala., October 29.—On Sunday afternoon the steam tug Edice exploded her boiler four miles south of Fort Morgan, Mobile bay. The boat sank immediately with the captain, John Carney, Mate Andrews and the colored firemen. The engineer and cook were picked up. The latter died while on the way to Fort Morgan. The former is painfully wounded.

An Indian Law Point.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 29.—A Deadwood, Dakota, special says: Kan Ge Shange, better known as Crow Dog, sentenced to death in January for the murder of the celebrated Sioux Chief Spotted Tail, was granted permission to visit town unattended and made his escape. His case is now before the United States supreme court on appeal that having been tried by Indian authorities, according to treaty he was not amenable to the white man's laws.

Railroad Accident.

CINCINNATI, October 29.—Two passenger cars of a train making up at Glendale, Ohio, this evening got loose and started south on the track down grade. They ran nearly to Park Place, where they met a north-bound passenger train. The engineer saw the red light of the car, checked the speed of his train, jumped and escaped with bruises. The fireman remained aboard. He was extracted with difficulty, his hands and face cut. The red light prevented serious accident.

Receiver for a Mining Company.

NEW YORK, October 29. Judge Donohue has appointed Harry Allen receiver of the Climax Mining company. The attorney general brought action against the company to recover taxes, and obtained two judgments for over $5,000, and suit was brought later by the attorney general for voluntary dissolution of the company and an injunction to restrain the officers and stockholders from interfering with the assets, and in this suit the receiver was appointed.

A Strange Story.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., October 29.—A Waupun special to the Sentinel says S. S. Hudson, of Belvidere, Ills., who came here recently with two children in search of his runaway wife, found her masquerading in male attire under the name of Frank Dubois. She was living with Gertrude Fuller, having been married to her early last spring by Rev. H. L. Morrison at the home of the bride's mother. The deception had not been suspected, but many thought Frank Dubois had many characteristics of a woman. Under the name she had solicited odd jobs of painting, and was earning enough to keep them both.

Test Cases.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 29.—Two Chinese cases to test the validity of the Chinese government certificates were up to-day before Judge Hoffman, United States district court. He pronounced them exceedingly embarrassing. One of them was a Chinaman who said he was a cigar manufacturer. The judge said congress used the word "merchant" not "manufacturer," that if every Chinaman who made a few cigars or peddled matches was to be classified as a merchant the restriction act would be practically a dead letter. The second case was a boy of 17 years. His certificate set forth that the bearer was going to San Francisco to manage a business interest for a mercantile firm. Was the boy a laborer or merchant it was difficult to decide, so judgment was deferred.

Government Printing.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—Captain Burrill, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing, in his annual report says of the results of the year's work: There were completed and delivered 9,232,505 notes and securities with a face valuation of $995,717,450; 23,357,641 sheets internal revenue and customs stamps, containing $895,909,654 stamps; 734,160 sheets of checks, drafts, etc., and a large amount of miscellaneous work, besides imprinting the act of March 3, 1883, upon 1,833,336 sheets of tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarette stamps containing 57,214,744 stamps, furnished by the commissioner of internal revenue for that purpose. This is a large increase over last year's work. The rapidly increasing business of the bureau leads Captain Burrill to recommend the enlargement of the building at an early day.

A Socialist Journal.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 29.—The second number of the socialist journal issued by the students of Chestoo has been published. It declares that despite the miserable condition of the peasantry the socialists' propaganda has not made the progress it expected. The journal publishes the names of various persons arrested in Cronstadt, Odessa, Nikoliaf, and says two hundred students were expelled in a body from the commercial school Belajava Scorkow, in the government of Kien. No reason was assigned for this summary action. It also states that students of notable birth in the Constantine military school, of St. Petersburg, have been requested to furnish a list of the names of their present and former acquaintances, the alleged motive for which requirement being finding compromising documents in their possession.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Missing Mary.

ST. LOUIS, October 29.—News is received at last of the missing girl Mary Churchill, who disappeared mysteriously from her father's residence in July last. Her father, Col. John C. Churchill, has received a letter, from his daughter dated the 24th inst., mailed at Indianapolis the 27th. He refuses to make its contents public, but furnishes the following card for publication:

To the public: After a suspense of three months I am to-day in receipt of a letter from my daughter, Mary Churchill, mailed from a distant city. As all the papers all over the country have accorded me every facility within their power, and in many cases at great expense, in my search, notwithstanding the injunction imposed by my daughter to withhold from publication the contents of this letter, it is a sense of duty which I owe my friends that impels me to give its purport, which I herewith attach as follows:

"October, 25, 1883.

MY FATHER: I will let you know I am alive and well. I am not on the stage, as you supposed, nor have I eloped. Oh, how could you think so when I cared so little for gentleman society? I am earning my own living honestly. Teach my little sisters and darling little brother to think kindly of their sister.

(Signed,) MARY."

Col. Churchill expresses the utmost confidence in the authenticity of the letter and both he and his wife identify the handwriting perfectly. They have no information of their daughter's whereabouts, but both feel confident they will hear from her again soon and that she will return home shortly.

Race Trouble in Texas.

ST. LOUIS, October 29. The Post-Dispatch prints in a late edition a special from Austin, Texas, stating that intense excitement prevailed there all last night and to-day in consequence of a telegram received by Governor Ireland, that 500 negroes were under arms in the town of Gause, Milam county, and an outbreak was momentarily expected, and asking for immediate help. In view of the fact that the late decision in the civil rights bill case was creating a very bad feeling among negroes in various parts of state, and outbreaks have been looked for, Governor Ireland immediately issued a proclamation calling militia to arms. Two companies were mustered here at once and before midnight last night over one thousand men at Austin, Houston, Galveston and other places responded to the call and were ready to march at a moment's notice. The troops are still waiting orders at two o'clock this afternoon. The precise nature of the trouble at Gause cannot be ascertained. There seems to be no doubt that a disturbance of some kind is in progress, and Governor Ireland ordered that a special train be got in readiness for immediate use.

At 2.00 p. m., when the dispatch closes, the writer says the governor had received a telegram from the sheriff of the county and from railroad officials saying the matter had quieted down, but they give no particulars of the affair. This has calmed the feeling and troops will not be sent unless an emergency should arise.

GALVESTON, Tex., October 29.—The News' Austin special says: Last night Governor Ireland received a dispatch from a justice of the peace at Gause, in Milam county, stating positively that five hundred negroes were in arms against the whites. The message appeared to indicate so grave an emergency that Governor Ireland telegraphed all volunteer militia companies to be in immediate readiness to move by rail. A number of special trains were also ordered. The troops who gathered were allowed to disband at 1 this morning, nothing further being received from Gause till to-day and then only to say that everything was quiet. Parson Garitt, a colored preacher of Austin, after consulting with the governor, has gone to Gause.

Southern Cyclone.

NEW ORLEANS, October 29.—The Times-Democrat's Water Proof special says: A cyclone passed over Catahoula and Tensas parishes this morning. The first place it struck was James Bowman's plantation on Tensas river. Three houses were blown down and four negroes wounded. At the next place, D. D. Miller's Highland plantation, one house was lifted from its foundation and carried about half a mile into the woods. A negro church was turned half round. Tim Thomas, colored, had an arm broken. His wife and another woman with two children were hurt badly. The cyclone then visited Stone's Pecan plantation. A barn and two houses were blown down. At the next place, H. Moses & Co.'s Helena plantation, the roof of the house was carried away, eight cabins demolished, three persons badly hurt and seven or eight slightly. Mrs. Bowman's house, Catahoula parish, was blown down. She escaped, but three children have not been found. Three houses on W. C. Young's place, three on Watson's and three on the Perminter place were demolished.

Financial Difficulty.

CHICAGO, October 29.—The doors of the stationery and printing establishment of Culver, Page, Hoyne & Co. were closed this morning. In answer to inquiries it was stated that the business had been transferred to John Morris. Beyond this none of the parties interested would talk. The fact that Morris is a young lawyer until recently in the office of the attorney of the Union National bank is coupled with a general understanding that the bank has been carrying some of the firm's paper. The accepted theory in business circles is that Morris represents the bank together with a Massachusetts paper company and other preferred creditors. The immediate cause of the trouble seems to be the fact that Culver, the moneyed man of the firm, had part of his capital invested in mines and an insurance company. It is asserted that he has just sold one of his mines to an English syndicate for $400,000, and it is believed this transfer is for the purpose of tiding over the difficulty till the sale can be realized on. The assets are roughly estimated at $325,000. The liabilities it is believed will reach $500,000. Confessions of judgment was entered to-day by W. J. Dunham against the firm for $580,000.

France and China.

LONDON, October 29.—The Chinese legation has furnished newspapers copies of the entire correspondence with the French Minister of foreign affairs upon the Tonquin question. The correspondence embraces twenty-seven communications.

The France-Chinese correspondence furnished by the Chinese legation adds little to that already published except it offers arguments in favor of the Chinese position. It denies that the Marquis Tseng ever assured Challemel Lacour that China would not oppose France's enterprise in Tonquin.

PARIS, October 29.—Mail advices show that French forces in the encounters in the vicinity of Hanoi early in September met the Chinese regulars well armed and officered. After a conflict of three days during which the French took some of the enemy's works, they withdrew leaving Halphong still in the hands of the enemy. Some of the troops of the king of Annam were with the enemy.

A letter from Saigon states that unheard-of cruelties were committed there on the occasion of its capture by French sailors. Admiral Courbet directed in official order that there should be no quarter. Three hundred Annamites fleeing in the bay of Thuan were all shot. One hundred and fifty more drifting in a boat, without arms or oars, were also massacred. The Figaro declares that Admiral Courbet at the instance of Commissioner Harmand allowed the perpetration of such acts in order to terrorize the Annamites. The Temps denies that Admiral Courbet gave such orders, but admits that 1,200 of the enemy were slain at Thuan.

HONG KONG, China, October 29.—Defenses at Canton are being actively pushed forward. Large quantities of arms and ammunition arrived in that city yesterday in Chinese gun boats. Immediate attack on Chinese ports is not generally expected. It is thought for some time to come fighting will be confined to Tonquin, but it seems inevitable that hostilities will finally spread to China. Another French reverse in Tonquin will be fraught with serious results to foreigners in China. Advices from the interior show that the political excitement is spreading. All authority of the imperial government is much weakened in many districts. A wave of anti foreign feeling is passing over the country.

Indian Hostilities.

KANSAS CITY, October 29.—A Times correspondent at Deming, N. M., telegraphs that there is no truth in the report of the recent fight between Juh's and Geronimo's Apaches and Mexicans near Casa Grande.

EL PASO, Texas, October 29.—A Times special from Nogales, Mexico, to-day says: This morning four Mexican guards returned here after a scout of some distance. They report that with four others they three days ago surprised four Apaches near San Bernadino ranch in the northeastern corner of Sonora and on the western slope of the Sierra Madres. They attacked the Indian camp and captured ten horses. The Apaches escaped, being better mounted. These scouts also report having seen trails of other parties of Indians all traveling north in the direction of the Chiricahua mountains. They are some of the Apaches who have been at Casas Grandes and who lately eluded the vigilance of the Mexican troops who were attempting to surround them.

Army Changes.

CHICAGO, October 29. General Sheridan left for Washington to-night for the purpose of assuming the rank of general of the armies of the United States as successor to General Sherman. He was accompanied by Colonel M. V. Sheridan, Colonel Volkmar and Colonel Gregory, who will continue as his personal staff, in the positions which they occupied here with General Sheridan in command of the department of the Missouri. Other members of his military staff remain in Chicago.

During the years of his residence here General Sheridan made very warm friends, both as a soldier and citizen and many of those accompanied him to the depot to bid him good speed on his journey. General Scofield, who succeeds General Sheridan in command of the department of the Missouri, is expected here to-morrow with Lieutenant Scofield, his brother.

Nat Goodwin.

Next Friday and Saturday evenings will be the only opportunity our people will have this season of enjoying the style of comedy produced by Nat Goodwin's Comedy company. Two of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin's most popular comedies will be produced on Friday evening, "Hobbies," and Saturday "The Member for Slocum." The Denver Republican speaks thus flatteringly of the troupe: "By long odds the funniest performance ever given at the opera house was 'Hobbies,' as presented by the Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Goodwin Comedy company last night.

"There is little or nothing to the play. It is a farce comedy of the most ultra type, and it would be difficult for anybody to discover the semblance of a plot in its composition. But nobody who sits through it would ever think of looking for a plot, or of anything else, save the fun which keeps the audience in a roar of laughter from first to last.

"Mr. Goodwin is the funniest comedian on the American stage, and he is at his funniest in 'Hobbies.' Whatever he says or does, and he is always saying or doing something while he remains in sight, provokes laughter. We know of no other actor of whom this can be said.

"Mrs. Goodwin, who caused such a furore when she first came to America as Miss Eliza Weathersby, has lost none of her original freshness and piquancy. She seems to grow younger and more winning every year.

"Miss Emile Weatherby is a clever singer, and Miss Jennie is the most wonderful fairy that human eyes ever rested upon. Her appearance last night fairly brought down the house.

"The support throughout was excellent."

Mr. W. Hodkman, of Salida, was in the city yesterday.

Hon. L. K. Bass and wife returned from their eastern trip yesterday.

The floor has been put down over the parquet of the opera house for the Crowell masquerade.

The Colorado Springs company has filed a plat of Addition No. 5 to the city of Colorado Springs at the county clerk's office.

Miss Vance has returned from Philadelphia, where she spent the summer. She seems quite pleased to get back to Colorado.

Mr. O. L. Godfrey has returned from a visit to his old home in Wisconsin and will resume his duties in the El Paso County bank.

Mr. C. W. Barker was unable to be present at the meeting of the republican central committee yesterday, consequently it was adjourned until Monday.

Next Friday and Saturday nights we will have the opportunity of seeing Nat Goodwin, the celebrated comedian, in "Hobbies" and "A Member from Slocum."

Supper will be served at the Delmonico restaurant next Wednesday night for the accommodation of those attending the B. F. Crowell masquerade at the opera house.

A marriage license was yesterday issued to Alexander Gordon and Miss Abbie B. Ingersoll, both of Denver. They were in the afternoon united in marriage by Justice Pixley.

Articles of incorporation of the Pike's Peak Railway & Improvement company, the same as those placed on record with the secretary of state, have been filed with County Clerk Eaton.

Mrs. A. R. Greene announces in our advertertising columns that she will give instructions on the piano forte. She will also have afternoon and evening classes in dancing. She will also play for private parties.

The frames for the glass ballot boxes have not turned up yet and there is some talk of having them manufactured in town. Perhaps they can be found in some of the neighboring counties. Park county sent for boxes which they ascertained after considerable trouble and worry had been shipped to Lake county.

The subject of discussion at the First Methodist Episcopal church this morning will be Christianity a Fulfillment; Matthew v:19. This will be the sixth in the series of the Sermon on the Mount. In the evening the subject will be the "Discriminate Use of a Bible." Hereafter the evening service will begin at 7, instead of 7.30 o'clock.

Arrivals at The Antlers: J B Arendeen, J H F Mayo, New York; Mrs C L De Laitre, Mrs W R Genle, Minneapolis; G W Rogers, Alamosa; Charles L Shannon, Cincinnati, O; C J Candle, Robert H Lamborn, New York; Ed Koch and wife, London; A Hackel, St. Louis; W E Howard, Kansas City; L A Crossett, Boston; F H Weiden, Chicago; E F Palmer, Auburn, N Y; Marshall Silverthorn, Marshall county, Cal; Ewing Robertson, Loch Katrine; H A Hood, Ranch; A Friedman, Denver; F B Homan, Boston; O L Godfrey, Colorado.

Rev. Jas. B. Gregg, pastor of the Congregational church, will begin this a morning a series of twelve discourses on Twelve Great Sayings of Jesus. The subject this morning will be "To Those Who are in Darkness, he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life." In the evening the subject will be "A sketch of the history of an old New England church for 250 years, founded on the recent celebration of the First church in Hartford, Conn. Persons wishing to unite with the church are asked to meet the pastor and committee in the lecture rooms of the church at 10.30 this morning.

The members of the Matt France hose company assembled in their rooms in the City Hall last night in response to a call from the secretary. Chief Engineer Pixley had been invited to be present, but he was not prepared for the surprise that was in store for him. After the meeting was called to order Mr. J. M. Bolton, with a very neat little speech, stepped to the center of the room and presented Mr. Pixley with a silver water service consisting of pitcher, salver and goblets, in behalf of the members of the Matt France Hose company. Mr. Pixley responded with some very appropriate remarks, in which he showed fully his appreciation of the gift. He sent out for cigars and wine and invited all present to indulge. A very pleasant hour was spent during which time remarks were made by Messrs L. C. Dana, W. R. Roby, A. H. Corman, J. N. Beall, Harvey Clement, Deck Russell and others. The meeting was largely attended, there being seven charter members present, and it is well known the Matt France Hose is one of the oldest fireman's organizations in Colorado Springs. We neglected to say that the silver service was a wedding present and was selected by a committee composed of Messrs. A. G. Draper, D. A. Russell and H. R. Jenkins. Mr. Pixley in his remarks said that if any of the members of the Matt France hose, or in fact of the whole department, wanted to pattern after him and get married, he would contribute his services as justice.

Weber Street Private School.

MR. KRAUSS takes pleasure in making known to those interested in his school that he has secured the services of a NATIVE FRENCH TEACHER, who will reside in his family, and will, in addition to her duties in the school, receive a class of OUTSIDE PUPILS in French, at 11 a. m. Tuesdays and Fridays, beginning November 6th. An EVENING CLUB will meet at the house at 7.30 p. m. on Thursdays, beginning November 8th. This club is to have the character of a social gathering, in which useful instruction is combined with pleasure, the teacher having had marked success in conducting such classes in Boston.

Mr. Krauss is assisted in his school by two competent teachers from the east, one of whom gives Object Lessons to the children of the Primary Department. The method of object teaching is also used in the instruction in German, which, as well as Calisthenics, is a part of the regular course for all classes.

Drawing is included in the regular course in the Primary Department, and is an extra in the Advanced Department. A number of casts to be used as models have just been received.

The pupils are carefully classified, and thoroughness is aimed at rather than rapid advancement.

MISS G. WALLIS will take private pupils in Kensington Embroidery.

During the coming winter, Mr. Krauss will deliver a course of lectures on TEUTONIC MYTHOLOGY, to which the older pupils will be invited. These lectures will be advertised in proper time. k-24-6

To the Ladies.

Mrs. Wood has just received from New York a very choice variety of novelties in millinery, the largest line ever displayed in Colorado Springs, mostly of imported goods, and ladies who do not care to be copied in what they wear can not fail to be pleased, as most of these goods are unduplicated. Have also received a stylish line of dress patterns for winter and will guarantee any lady an elegant and nicely made dress or hat, unrivaled in low prices and great style. k-7-1m

The affidavit period has come in the Arapahoe campaign

It is a very gratifying fact that contributions for the support of the House of the Good Shepherd for fallen women are coming from all denominations in liberal amounts

The full report of Rosecrans' interview on the battle of Chicamauga is given in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette. We do not wonder that he repudiated it, though it bears very striking evidence of its genuineness. He denounces General Wood as a coward, speaks of "Garfield's vanity and insatiable itch for notoriety," reflects on Grant and Stanton and rather modestly assumed that he was the greatest general in the army but was not appreciated. He says nothing about General Thomas or General Steedman. Any account of Chicamauga without them is like the play with Hamlet left out

The county republican committee met yesterday and selected Mr. Giles Crissey to fill the vacancy made by Mr. Matt France declining the nomination for county commissioner. The ticket is complete and is worthy of the support of the republicans of this county. Several names on the ticket are candidates for re-election. They have filled their offices so faithfully and acceptably that they deserve the endorsement of a re-election. At present there is no indication that there will be a full ticket in the field against the republican ticket. From present indications the heaviest assault will be made on the candidate for county judge. Mr. Hooke has announced himself as an independent candidate and his friends are hard at work for him. While we know no reason why Mr. Hooke would not make an acceptable county judge, we see no reason for republicans bolting the nomination of Judge Colburn. He has filled the office in a very acceptable manner. He has a few enemies because he has acted as judge and jury in small cases where neither party wished a judge. Of course whichever way he decided, there would be dissatisfaction, and this appears in some of the opposition he is receiving. But as it is impossible for him to decide both ways, such opposition ought not to be very influential. He has done his business promptly and has tried to keep down the expenses of litigation in his court

The following from Harper's Weekly is a very brief but full summary of the Tewksbury almshouse issue that Butler is making such a fuss over. To bring Mr. Sanborn as "a witness for Butler was, of course, a capital 'stroke, if it could be accomplished. But "fortunately he was present at the conference, and he is always quite able to speak "for himself, and is the last man to be bullied, in the state or out of it, by Butler or his satellites. Mr. Sanborn stated to the 'conference and to the people of Kentucky 'that in 1876 he did bring charges against the 'management of Tewksbury almshouse. 'They were promptly investigated, and were "either proved or admitted and the evils that 'he pointed out were long since corrected. "But, he added the Butler charges are not "true, were never proved and are not believed 'by any candid person acquainted 'with the facts. That there should 'be no misunderstanding, Mr. Sanborn 'ended a very striking and impressive speech 'by saying, with the deepest consciousness of 'his responsibility that 'the accusations of 'Governor Butler against the mother that fostered him, the state that has honored him 'and the charitable institutions that should 'have been under his protection, are, for substance of malignant theory and for allegation of malicious fact infamously false. We suspect that Massachusetts which is thoroughly aroused and indignant, will say the 'same in November, and show that wanton 'defamation of his fellow citizens, however 'smartly put, is not the way to win votes for "a demagogue. There is no question, also, 'that many democrats who are unwilling to see their party merged into Butlerism, and who think that if Butler should be successful in a wholly personal campaign he would be a formidable candidate for the presidential nomination, would not be sorry to see him defeated.

RICH TREAT IN STORE

To the Editor of the Gazette

Though judging from the frequent palpable misinterpretation of my words by the editor of the GAZETTE, and his endeavor to prove his outrageous assertion that "the most ignorant of our foreign population come from distinctively Roman Catholic countries," an alleged fact ... army are illiterate, and though, as I have already declared, "I have neither time nor inclination to discuss the merits of the public school system, or statistics of illiteracy in Catholic countries, yet as he persists in forcing the issue, I shall, with his permission, as time allows me, show on the authority of even non Catholic men of eminence, first, that our public school system is not as he maintains, "a most vital part of our institutions," second, that "the Catholic schools of this country that are intended for the education of the poor are very much below the standard of our public schools," third, that the statistics advanced by the GAZETTE, as far as distinctively Catholic countries are concerned are not only "unreliable" but false

I promise the editor of the GAZETTE that if he gives the space necessary he will have a surfeit of the public school question and statistics of illiteracy. Meantime I cannot help saying that the editor's insulting statement that "the most ignorant of our foreign population come from distinctively Roman Catholic countries," which he has not and cannot prove, can only be characterized as brutal and far from gentlemanly. R. F. B.

It is with profound satisfaction that we publish the above gentle epistle from the Reverend Father and gentleman. We will be exceedingly glad to give any reasonable space in the GAZETTE for his letters on the subjects he mentions in the above, and congratulate our readers on the rich treat in store for them.

Leitch and Turner

Good Words

"The first time I met Turner was at a dinner table of Pickersgill, in Soho square, shortly after I returned from Italy. The evening was a remarkable one to me, and I have a very distinct recollection of the people I met there and what they said. There were Sir Francis Chantrey, Sir Martin Shee, Mr Hilton, Mr Jones and Sir Geoffrey Wyntville, besides Mr Turner, Frank Arundel and Sir Henry Pickersgill. Mr Pickersgill, when he invited me, said he should like me to bring a folio of the studies I had done in Italy, as he thought his friends would be pleased to see them, and especially Chantrey and Turner. I accordingly took with me some drawings, and when we came up to the drawing room they were produced. I was seated between Turner and Sir Martin Shee. Jones and Mr Hilton were opposite, and as they had the folio they handed out the drawings separately to pass round the table. I don't recollect anything particular being said of the first ten or twelve subjects. Sir Martin Shee always said something polite and pleasant, but Turner, when I put the drawings into his hand, gave only a hasty glance at them and a subdued grunt, and passed them to Mr Pickersgill without any remark. I think it was about the middle of my folio that I observed Mr Hilton and Mr Jones whispering together and looking with more than ordinary attention at one of the drawings, and when Sir Martin put it into my hands he gave me a pleasant smile. I passed it to Turner, who held it for some time regarding it attentively with knitted brows. Then turning to me he said in a brusque manner 'Where did you get that?' I was taken a little back at the rough manner of the question and did not immediately answer, and he said again, 'Where did you get that?' 'To tell the truth Mr Turner, that drawing was done from memory. It is an impression of a subject and effect which I saw in the Abruzzi Mountains, near the town of Salmona, in the middle of the Apennines.' He looked at me for a moment with a very unsatisfactory expression and said, 'I don't believe a word of it.' Nothing more was said. Significant looks were exchanged among the company, and the rest of the drawings were passed over without much remark. After Turner left, Sir Martin Shee said to me, 'You have given us a great pleasure in showing us these interesting studies, but I need not say anything in commendation of them after the compliment that has just been paid you.' I replied that if Sir Martin alluded to what Mr. Turner had said, it was surely an extraordinary way of paying a compliment, and that I could not imagine what he meant. Sir Martin replied 'Mr Turner is an extraordinary man, and I cannot tell you what he meant, but this I am sure of, that had he not thought your drawing more than ordinarily good and true and beautiful he would not have said a word about it.'" This was in 1842. I possess a replica by Mr Leitch of this little drawing, and it is certainly very fine

Shall We Abolish Hanging?

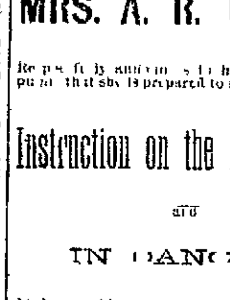

The Fortnightly Review

It has been the fashion of late to exalt certain foreign methods at the expense of our own, chiefly because the latter has sometimes broken down. Two of these foreign systems in particular have been glorified, and no doubt both have certain undoubted merits of their own. The guillotine is most effective as a means of destroying life. It is an unerring, nearly automatic machine, and probably annihilates without unnecessarily protracted pain. Its inventor went so far as to claim that the sufferer felt merely a pleasant freshness about the neck and nothing more. To the sensitive mind, however, there is something terribly distressing in decapitation, it is horrible to see, or rather to hear the head fall into the basket amid torrents of blood. The Spanish garrotte again, which is obviously Oriental in origin, and adaptation of the bowstring, is also instantaneous in its action. The old mechanism, which was simply a rope and a piece of stick used torniquet fashion, has been improved into a brass collar encircling the neck and containing a sharp point which is forced into the spinal marrow. But neither of the other forms are really so far superior to ours as to be so far superior as to supersede it. After all one method is as good as another, provided it fulfills certain indispensable conditions. Capital punishment is intended to remove the criminal to extinguish a life forfeited to the law and if this can be accomplished promptly, without inflicting torture, encouraging bravado or demoralizing the executioner the desired end is achieved. The ... are not unattainable results and so long as they can be compassed by hanging there can be no sufficient reason for trying to domesticate exotic methods of execution. It has also been mooted recently whether some more scientific process might not yet be adopted with advantage. The chemist and the electrician have tremendous agencies at their disposal one or other of which might be utilized for the destruction of the criminal. But poor humanity is already too sorely beset by murderous enemies and legislators may well pause before they permit the development of the means of taking life. Great practical difficulties, too would probably supervene in giving effect to any new process, whether by poison or electricity. The intervention of some skilled agent would be indispensable, the fatal poison must be administered scientifically the dread forces of electricity must be set in motion by some expert, and it might not be easy to persuade doctors or savants to act as executioners. But a still stronger objection exists to this or any kind of change in the manner of carrying out the penalty of death. It is not likely that any such change would easily secure legislative sanction, not from any positive dislike to accept this or that new method, but because the opening of the question at all would end in the abolition of capital punishment altogether. Whether society can quite afford to part with one of its greatest safeguards is beyond the scope of this paper to discuss. But all who feel that ... or a life is sure ... protection against ... prefer to ... our system of execution unchanged. An imperfect process is better than none at all, and it will be better to adopt reasonable improvements than bring about abolition by vain search after an impossible ideal

Thackeray's Old Servant.

John Payne Collier's Diary

February 24, 1843. Thackeray at that time was chiefly known as the writer of the "Yellowplush Papers" in Frazer's [sic] Magazine. He wished me to introduce him to the Morning Chronicle, but I do not think his application there was successful. I, however, met him one day near Somerset House, walking along at a prodigious pace, when he stopped me and said "Collier I have this moment come from concluding an engagement with a publisher, who will give £200 [I am not sure that it was not £300] a year if I will fill only eight pages of his monthly publication." I, of course, congratulated him, for I knew it was just then of great importance to him, as he lived in rather an expensive house in Coram streets, and kept a man servant. I dined with him there, in company with John Mitchell Kemble and his first wife, the daughter of a German professor, but who had the dirtiest nails I ever saw anybody sit down to table with. There were three or four other dinners, but it was one of the dullest parties of the sort I ever remember. I subsequently asked Thackeray how, considering his circumstances, he could afford to keep a livery servant, (who, by the way, were very old fashioned cut clothes, with broad worsted lace down the fronts and around the pockets) and he told me that the old man (at least 60) had been a sort of heirloom from his father, and that, rather than not serve the son, he was content with his keep and almost no wages. Thackeray supported him while the old fellow lived

In chronic dyspepsia and liver complaint and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders this standard vegetable invigorant is confessedly unequaled. The Face of the Globe.

Scientific Monthly

It is estimated that the proportion of the surface of the globe covered by water is to the land surface as two hundred and seventy to one hundred, and that the average height of land or continents over the world above sea level is somewhat less than one thousand feet. The great mountain chains by which the continents are more or less traversed form mere narrow ridges, which rise in no case more than twenty nine thousand feet, or say about five and a quarter miles above sea level, and add but comparatively little to the mass of ground above the sea level. On the other hand the contour lines of the oceanic basins tell a very different tale of the great submarine depressions. The soundings made on the recent voyage of the Challenger in the North Pacific ocean have shown that its mean depth is not less than fifteen thousand feet while the mean depth of the North Atlantic is found to be fourteen thousand feet and of the South Atlantic thirteen thousand feet. It is only in high northern latitudes in the North Atlantic and North Pacific, that the soundings give evidence of shallower seas of a mean depth of about eight thousand feet. Thus it is extraordinary how small the mass of land projecting over the sea level is compared to the mass of waters filling the impressions below that level. Taking the average depth of the seas and ocean at 10,000 feet, and the height of the land at 1,000 feet, the mass of the land above waters compared to the mass of waters filling the ocean troughs is nearly in the proportion of one to thirty. It is curious that the deepest soundings recorded by the Challenger in Northwest Pacific registered a depth of about five miles and a quarter—a depth which closely corresponds with the elevation above the sea level of the loftiest known point of land, namely the summit of Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, which is twenty nine thousand and two feet or very nearly five miles and a quarter. We must remember however that the one measurement is that of a mere peak, while the other probably gives the depth of an extended trough. We may thus realize how irregular are the contour lines of the globe, and how deep the depressions and abysses concealed from our view by seas and oceans. Could all these waters be drained off from the surface our earth would present the aspect of a solid sphere everywhere wrinkled and deeply pitted. Nevertheless, its actual dimensions are so great that mountains five miles high and ocean troughs five miles deep bear no greater relation to the bulk of the globe than the irregularities on the skin of an orange

Lord Beaconsfield's Younger Days

Chambers Journal

Disraeli was essentially warm hearted and generous and when he took his first plunge into public life he went with the stream which was then running, most young men not trained at public schools and the universities toward ... theories of all kinds, but from the first he showed a disposition which would have ... him unfit to work with parliamentary liberals. In his earliest speeches and writings his satire always was straightest when levelled at the ... place hunting, at political hypocrisy, sordid shams, and dull arrogance. There was no pettiness in him; he had a poet's mind, which took grand sweeping views of things and conjured up gorgeous visions of human progress and national triumphs. He might have become the most dangerous of radical agitators but he settled into his proper ... institutions which had made England great ... friend of the most highly cultured, most spirited and most tolerant aristocracy the world has ever seen. If he had been educated at the college of Winchester, instead of in a private school at that town, and if he had afterward gone to Christchurch, or to Trinity, Cambridge, he would have been drawn toward conservatism in his boyhood but it so happened that at his Winchester school and at another in Walthamstow where he spent a couple of years, he had much to put up with on account of his Jew looks and he seems to have imbibed a passionate hostility towards toryism because it was expounded in these places by a Low Church Parson's "bullying brat" and by "the haughty snuffing son of a city knight." He did not often allude to his school days, but from casual remarks it appears that he must have been an opposition leader in them both. "My first tyrant," he used to say, "was a boy we called Freckles (the Parson's brat). He lorded it over two cringing ushers. He called me a son of Belial for reading 'Roderick Random' on a Sunday, and we were always fighting." Of the city knight's son at Walthamstow he said "He was a fat boy who became my enemy because I nicknamed him 'Sir Lion.' I might more appropriately have given him some name connected with sheep for he was sheepish at work, but would run at me like a battering ram in the playground and he had a shoulder of mutton fist."

A Wound From a Stag's Horn

Chambers Journal

Throughout the West Highlands, a wound from a stag's horn is believed to be very dangerous. It is difficult to cure, and often causes extreme debility and bad health. Game keepers foresters, and their assistants dread it extremely, and say that a dog which receives such a wound usually dies from gangrene or mortification of the sore, however slight it may have seemed at first. If he recovers, the result is almost equally unsatisfactory, the dog becomes paralytic in the wounded limb or epileptic or if he has been a wise and intelligent creature, he now becomes perfectly stupid. The author of "Nether Lochaber" was personally acquainted with a fine looking young man, an assistant forester, who, in helping to take a dead stag off a hill pony's back was accidentally wounded in the leg by one of the tines. He did not think much of the wound at the time. It was an ugly, ragged gash, but not deep, and he had more than once had much more serious wounds which had healed at once quite easily "by the first intention," as the doctors say. This wound from the dead stag's horn would not, however, heal, none of the salves, or ointments or healing mendicants of the glen had the least effect upon it. It always became the longer the worse, and when Mr Stewart saw the young man he was on his way to Glasgow to see if the skill of the doctors there could counteract the dire effect of the stag's horn.

THE ONLY DISSOLVER OF THE POISONOUS URIC ACID WHICH EXISTS IN THE BLOOD OF RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY PATIENTS

SALICYLICA is known as a common-sense remedy, because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so-called specifics and supposed panaceas only treat locally the effects

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments, and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid and so removes the disorder. It is now exclusively used by all celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy of Paris reports 95 per cent cures in three days that SALICYLICA is a certain cure for RHEUMATISM, GOUT and NEURALGIA. The most intense pains are subdued almost instantly

Hon. E. C. Monk left for the east yesterday morning.

Mr. J. H. Eoff has returned from his eastern trip.

Mr. Charles Cavender, of Leadville, is a guest at The Antlers.

Manager Nye has been summoned to Denver as a witness in the Bush-Tabor trial.

All voters should register to-day if they desire to save making affidavit next Monday.

Nat Goodwin is doing an immense business in Colorado. He will be here on Friday and Saturday nights.

Signal Officer Boynton expects to leave for his new post at Port Huron, Michigan, either to-day or to-morrow.

A. H. Mack and others filed a certificate of location on the Excelsior lode at the county clerk's office yesterday.

Mr. D. J. Martin announces that he has received a line of Jerseys and walking jackets; Ladies are invited to call and see them.

Miss Gene Baker, of Pittsburg, Mr. George Paul, of Philadelphia, are visiting at Mrs. Burr's. They seem to be enjoying their visit in Colorado exceedingly well.

Mr. B. P. Braisher, of Denver, spent Sunday and yesterday in Colorado Springs accompanied by his wife. They will return to-morrow and attend the Crowell masquerade.

Charles Durkee, the enterprising hardware man, has put a weather bulletin up in the postoffice just over the general delivery window. Reports of the weather as made by the signal service every day will be kept on the bulletin board.

Those desiring carriages for the Crowell masquerade ball can obtain them at exceedingly reasonable prices by leaving orders at A. Sagendorf's drug store, either to-day or to-morrow. The charge will not be over fifty cents per couple.

Col. De La Vergne is delivering carp, fry and spawners, before they go into winter quarters. It would be well for all those intending to stock their ponds to order soon as the season at which he can deliver will only last about ten days.

Word was received at the court house yesterday that the frames of the ballot boxes were on the road and would probably reach here either to-day or to-morrow. It seems that the frames were not placed on the same bill of lading as the glass globes.

There was an exceptionally heavy wind storm on Sunday night, but we have not heard of any material damage being done in the city. Word was received from Pike's Peak last night that the roof had blown off of the signal station. Beyond this no further facts are known.

To-morrow morning the reserved seat sale for Nat Goodwin's engagement will begin at Howbert Bros.' book store. He will appear on Friday evening in "Hobbies" and Saturday in "The Member for Slocum." This promises to be the most successful engagement of the season.

Nathan Basham who was implicated in the cutting affray at the Kirk house about two weeks ago, had a hearing in Justice Pixley's court yesterday charged with a breach of the peace. He plead not guilty, but at a trial afterwards given him, he was convicted and had to pay a fine of $5 and the cost of the trial.

Voters should remember that the registration board will be in session in the several wards to-day. It will be the last opportunity that voters will have to register without swearing in their names, before election. The places of registration are: First ward, court house; Second ward, Whipple & Roby's shop; Third ward, A. M. E. church; Fourth ward, Stevens & Rouse's livery stable.

Rev. Geo. F. Hays, D. D., pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Denver, is expected to deliver a lecture in the Presbyterian church of this city on Friday evening, November 9th, for the benefit of the ladies aid society. The subject will be announced in a few days.

Mr. J. O. Kerstrom, the Swedish consul at Denver, has received instructions from the Swedish legation at Washington to hunt up a Swede named Samuel Wendell. Mr. Kerstrom writes that Wendell when last heard from was clerking in Colorado Springs. The officers have, however, been unable to obtain any information as to the man's whereabouts.

A force of men came down from Greeley yesterday to continue work on the artesian well in the place of Messrs. Swan and Nevins. The former has been called east on business and the latter will go to his mines in Custer county. The men coming from Greeley brought with them a 1400 feet cable, which they will splice to the one now in use. Mr. Swan will return from the east in about two weeks.

Sheriff Dana yesterday received a telegram from Salida asking him to keep on the lookout for Frank Reed, who on Sunday night shot and fatally wounded Marshal Stingley. The town of Salida has offered a reward of $1,000 for his capture. Reed is described as being about 5 feet 8, with dark complexion, black eyes, wide cheek bones, very short chin, square shoulders, weight about 175. Said to be wounded.

Arrivals at The Antlers: John A Lane, New York; J Scott Boyd, jr, Poncha Springs; Chas Cavender, Leadville; B P Braisher and wife, Denver; Mrs Merriam, Philadelphia; Dr and Mrs Williamson, Colorado; C A Apthorpe, Robert A Wright, city; W F Fray, W H Hampson, Philadelphia; J A McCune, Leadville; B Gilpin, Ranch; S P Ryland, Jr, Baltimore; W E Howard, Kansas City; J A Link, Manitou Park; Charles Simons, Colorado; R P Oliver, Denver; G H Coggshall and wife, Cheyenne; Jos Seaver; Boston; T A Hirsch, Chicago; Horace Fletcher, San Francisco; Mrs Isaac Fletcher, Lawrence, Kas; J H Eoff, Colorado.

A meeting of the republican county committee was held yesterday morning, the three members, Messrs. John Campbell, C. W. Barker and Len Jackson, all being present. The object for which the meeting was called was to select a nominee for county commissioner in place of Mr. Matt France, who declined to be a candidate. A number of names were considered, among others those of J. A. Himebaugh, G. H. Stewart, H. A. Wilson, A. Z. Sheldon, William Lennox, Albert Mathews and Giles Crissey. The last named gentleman was the choice of the committee for the position and he has consented to accept the candidacy. His selection seems to give very general satisfaction.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Weber Street Private School.

MR. KRAUSS takes pleasure in making known to those interested in his school that he has secured the services of a NATIVE FRENCH TEACHER, who will reside in his family, and will, in addition to her duties in the school, receive a class of OUTSIDE PUPILS in French, at 11 a. m. Tuesdays and Fridays, beginning November 6th. An EVENING CLUB will meet at the house at 7.30 p. m. on Thursdays, beginning November 8th. This club is to have the character of a social gathering, in which useful instruction is combined with pleasure, the teacher having had marked success in conducting such classes in Boston.

Mr. Krauss is assisted in his school by two competent teachers from the east, one of whom gives Object Lessons to the children of the Primary Department. The method of object teaching is also used in the instruction in German, which, as well as Calisthenics, is a part of the regular course for all classes.

Drawing is included in the regular course in the Primary Department, and is an extra in the Advanced Department. A number of casts to be used as models have just been received.

MISS G. WALLIS will take private pupils in Kensington Embroidery.

During the coming winter, Mr. Krauss will deliver a course of lectures on TEUTONIC MYTHOLOGY, to which the older pupils will be invited. These lectures will be advertised in proper time. k-24-6

To the Ladies.

Mrs. Wood has just received from New York a very choice variety of novelties in millinery, the largest line ever displayed in Colorado Springs, mostly of imported goods, and ladies who do not care to be copied in what they wear can not fail to be pleased, as most of these goods are unduplicated. Have also received a stylish line of dress patterns for winter and will guarantee any lady an elegant and finely made dress or hat, unrivaled in low prices and good style. k-7-1m
